

Beef Quality Assurance Certification

Beef Quality Assurance (BQA) training helps producers improve animal welfare, enhance food safety, and boost the quality of their beef products. By adopting best management practices, producers can increase consumer confidence, potentially leading to higher market value and better overall herd health.

Beef and dairy producers seeking to obtain or renew their BQA certification can do so at the times listed on this flyer. The certification and recertification are free of charge, and no preregistration is required.
